SOLAR UNION ON MT. WILSON

MANY NOTED ASTRONOMERS THERE

Remarkable Gathering of Scientists Inspects Observatory and Discusses Solar Problems

One of the most remarkable gatherings of astronomers ever held is now in session on Mt. Wilson at the biennial convention of the International Union for Co-operation in Solar Research, otherwise known as the Solar Union. More than 100 delegates are in attendance from all over the world, in addition to the staff of the Mt. Wilson observatory, which includes some of the foremost scientists in the world.

About fifty of the scientists passed through Sierra Madre on their way up the mountain on Tuesday, making the trip from here on foot or in the saddle by way of the old trail. The remainder of the party drove from Pasadena to Mt. Wilson by way of the toll road. On Monday they had been entertained by Dr. and Mrs. George E. Hale at their beautiful South Pasadena home, where members of Los Angeles and Pasadena society were invited to meet the distinguished visitors.

Widely Representative

Eleven different nations are represented in the gathering on Mt. Wilson, which is considerably the largest ever held by the union. Possibly it is the greatest aggregation of mathematical knowledge ever gathered together in one place. Undoubtedly more profound thinkers and investigators are up there on the mountain than ever congregated in Southern California before at one time. So far advanced are their researches that their deliberations have little interest for the average person unless reduced or translated to understandable terms.

All of these scientists are modest men and have little to say concerning their work, especially for publication. That, in fact, is a pretty certain test of your true scientist. One of the greatest of the group, the man who first discovered that Halley's comet had two tails, was asked the other day if there was anything new about the comet which had not been made public. He replied:

"Oh, I know very little about that subject. Of course I studied the comet some but I am not an authority, by any means."

Inspecting Equipment

Before going to Mt. Wilson the astronomers devoted some time to visiting the offices, laboratories and shops of the observatory on Santa Barbara Street, Pasadena. It is here that the heavy machine work of the instrument makers and the lens grinding are done, also the work of the computers who figure out results from the data obtained by the observers on the mountain.

On the mountain the scientists soon found their supply of superlatives exhausted in the course of their inspection of the Carnegie Observatory equipment. The unique tower telescope with its wonderfully constructed tower, aroused the greatest enthusiasm among them. Wednesday and Thursday evenings the 60-inch telescope was placed at their disposal for observations. During the day time the Snow telescope and the old tower telescope were in constant operation. The spectroheliograph for the new tower is still in the shops in Pasadena, but the coelostat and long focus lens are in place and were objects of great interest. In addition to the Carnegie observatory great interest centered in the observing station of the Smithsonian Institution and the work of Director Charles Abbott.

Sessions of the Union were formally opened Wednesday morning with an address of welcome by Dr. George E. Hale, director of the Carnegie Observatory on Mt. Wilson. Three sessions daily have been devoted to discussion of the most advanced work of modern astronomy.

In the official register of delegates to the conference are shown the following seventy-three scientists, not including the local men:

WINERY MEN FRIGHTENED

Local option as adopted by the County Supervisors last Monday does not look good to the winery men of Lamanda Park. Wineries within the limits of incorporated towns are not affected by the new ordinance, but all others are at the mercy of the voters of the precincts in which they are located, the question to be submitted at general elections.

Ettienne Brothers and the proprietors of the Sierra Madre Vintage Company, whose property is in the Lamanda precinct, are expecting to have their local business killed off, according to a man in close touch with them. That precinct would long since have been dry if the wishes of property owners and voters had been consulted. It will be remembered that a petition signed almost unanimously by residents of the district was presented to the supervisors some months ago, but the old "solid three" refused even to take it under consideration, in spite of the urgent request of Supervisor Manning, representing the district concerned.

The new ordinance does not provide for shutting off the manufacture of wine but prevents the sale of the product of the winery in a precinct which has voted "dry." In the latter case it would be necessary to ship the wine to the city or to some precinct in the county which had voted "wet." The manufacturing side of the business will be interfered with only as it is dependent upon local sales, while the business of the wineries which is practically retail will be subject to the will of the voters.

MORALITY IN ARCADIA

Big Charley Smith, city marshal of Arcadia, is nobody's fool, but he furnished considerable amusement at the hearing of the moving picture men in Pasadena after the exhibition of the Reno fight pictures in Arcadia. The moving picture men were held to answer to the superior court for alleged conspiracy against the public morals, or something of the sort. Smith had been brought as a witness by the defence to prove that the morals of Arcadia did not suffer by reason of the reproduction of the fight.

It was Attorney Ford who put one over on Smith, who had said he regarded himself as an authority on what would adversely affect the public morals. "Far be it from me to insinuate that Mr. Smith knows anything about vice in any form," gently insinuated Deputy Ford, "but I should like to ask him what is public morality."

Smith paused a minute in contemplation, and then said: "Anything that's degrading."

CITY TRUSTEES MEET

The city trustees held a brief adjourned meeting this morning for the purpose of passing ordinances ordering the improvement of Highland Avenue from Baldwin to Mountain Trail; Hermosa Avenue from Highland to Grand View and Cater Avenue from Auburn to Baldwin. The season suitable for street work is so far spent now that the proceedings are being rushed with all speed possible under the law which requires certain specified intervals between various steps in the proceedings.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vannier of Buffalo are guests at the home of Mr. E. H. Vannier this week.

BALDWIN ESTATE PAYS HUGE TAX

ON BEQUEST OF TURFMAN

Appraiser's Figures for Value of Estate Cause Discussion of "Lucky's" Real Wealth

Exceeding by more than $100,000 the largest inheritance tax ever before paid in the state is the sum to be paid by the heirs of E. J. Baldwin. The total is $247,000, based in the appraisal of James H. Faulkner as reported to Judge Rives in the probate court.

Faulkner's appraisal placed the value of the estate at $11,138,968.75 at the time of Baldwin's death. Debts of more than four millions reduce the net valuation to $7,350,038.85. It was this amount the tax was levied upon.

These figures will be subject to change at the time of final adjustment of the affairs of the estate after all litigation has been settled. Should the claims against the estate then make it amount to less than the appraisal the state will have to pay a rebate. On the other hand, if the appraisal is below the value as shown at that time the estate will have to pay something additional.

While the inheritance tax of the Baldwin estate is the largest recorded in this state, there are some who think it should have been far larger. An examination of the schedules, they say, shows ridiculously low valuations of real estate in various portions of the ranch property, also of various items of personal property such as race horses. Further, they point to the fees to be received by Executor H. A. Unruh and Attorney Bradner W. Lee. These are said to be $250,000 each, a sum far too large for a $7,000,000 estate. This seems especially true in view of the fact that settlement of the estate has been comparatively easy and simple for one so large.

WHY STREET TREES DIE

There is reason to believe the city fathers would do well to discharge the dog catcher and appoint in his place a public gopher catcher to protect street trees. These pests seem to have no more respect for the young acacia trees along Central Avenue than they have for the trees of any fruit grower. Between small boys and horses above ground and gophers below, a good many of the trees have given up the struggle and died. This is the more regrettable because of the fact that most of those which have survived show rapid, thrifty growth. Showing what ravages the gophers commit, J. J. Graham pulled up the stalk of a dead tree and found it had been chewed almost completely in two below ground at a point where it was an inch and a quarter in diameter. No wonder the tree gave up and died.

ERECTING ICE DEPOT

The Pasadena Ice Company is erecting an ice house on its lot east of the lumber yard. The building is not large but will possibly help to make the local ice supply a little more regular and not entirely dependent upon the wagon haul from Pasadena. In time the company plans to erect a larger storage house and cooling station.

BY THE WAY

Poor old 1910! Straw hats are officially on the blink and next year's diaries are already on sale. Tempus is fugiting.

Some say last Saturday's convention was the "worst bossed" in the history of Los Angeles county Republicanism. There is no doubt as to the fact that it was bossed, as have been all the others. But why not say it was the "best bossed" convention the party ever held?

Another boy bandit attributes his downfall directly to witnessing a burglary depicted by a Los Angeles moving picture show. The yellowbacked novels are weak in the comparison of their power of suggestion with that of the moving pictures. How about that censorship to protect susceptible minds?

News readers ought to be thankful for the recent cold weather. The editor started to write a poem yesterday but the typewriter froze up and refused to work. Before an application of hot water and mustard poultices could loosen up the joints of the machine the muse had fled and News readers were saved an awful imposition.

Judging by the platforms adopted by Republican conventions throughout the country there can no longer be any doubt as to who are the "regular" Republicans in Los Angeles county. The way some of the old guard jump for the bandwagon seems to indicate their own personal opinion in the matter, regardless of what they would really prefer.

It is a wise prophet who forecasts only what he has the power to bring to pass. President Ripley's prophecy of hard times brings to mind past financial panics which had a suspiciously made-to-order appearance. A panic right now when there is no real reason for it might have the effect of making the people be good and refrain from regulating corporations for awhile. But, the chances are, it would convince them more than ever that the corporations are in need of regulation.

"What's the use of conserving the forests, merely to have millions of acres burned over every year?" sneers an editorial friend of the policy of private plunder on a large scale. The immense annual loss from fires is one of the most urgent reasons for conserving what forest resources remain in this country. With these areas handled according to modern forestry methods the loss from fires would be minimized, and there would be a large annual income from the sale of timber, the cutting of which would not devastate the land and render it profitless for generations to come as is the case with present methods where forest land is thrown open to the lumbermen. This country is about 100 years behind the times in the matter of handling timber land. Germany is perhaps the furthest advanced of the nations in its forest policies. And in a few years Pinchot and his "theories" absorbed from practical work among the Germans, will be recognized as about a century ahead of his time in America.

OCCUPY NEW STORE BUILDING

The completion of the new Adams building was the signal for the opening of two stores by Sierra Madre merchants which are about the best this city has yet seen in the way of equipment. After occupying cramped quarters ever since starting in business here, J. A. Patterson has at last secured a room large enough for the demands of his business and the convenience of customers. It is unlikely that any suburban town in this region has a confectionery and stationery store which is its superior in appointments and general attractiveness. The new soda fountain is handsome and of the latest counter draft design. Show cases, glass encased shelving, tables and chairs harmonize nicely in design and finish. The large store room at the rear makes it possible to improve the appearance of the store by keeping all surplus or reserve stock out of sight. A fully equipped dark room for photographic work will be installed later.

The south room of the new building is occupied by M. Olsen, who has been in the shoe business in Sierra Madre 23 years, all the time in the building which has also served as his residence. He has now added a line of men's furnishing goods. The furniture and fixtures of the new store are strictly up to date, including a handsome set of fixtures for window display. In the room at the rear Mr. Olsen will have his shoe repair shop. He will also add an important piece of new equipment in the shape of a finishing machine, run by electric motor.

Vacation Triangle

O large and fat was Clerkson's wad when Clerkson journeyed blithely forth with fly-book, line, and jointed rod to spend the summer in the North! Alas! It proved a costly play, for Clerkson freely bought and bought. That wad it dwindled day by day—It vanished, dribbled, sped away. And so poor Clerkson—sad to say! Had O !

FRONTIER DAY CELEBRATION

Long Beach is putting forth every effort and leaving no stones unturned in making Admission Day one of the greatest days in the season's festivities.

In the afternoon a Frontier Day roundup will be one of the chief attractions, Middleton Bros. of Arizona having been secured and they have brought with them a load of genuine "outlaw" horses and a bunch of the best cowboys that ever put a saddle on a horse. They will give three hours of broncho busting, roping and cossack riding. These boys are the genuine cowboys right from the plains of Arizona and Texas, chief among them being Bill Thompson, known throughout the West for his daring feats in riding. They will show the public as near as possible what real life is on the plains.

In the evening a big masked carnival will be held on the pike and confetti

PREPARING FOR BUSINESS

With a view to accommodating their workmen while installing the Piedmont Gas Company's mains in Sierra Madre the Gas Operating and Construction Company has rented the Bishop building at Central and Lima for headquarters. A mess room and sleeping quarters will be provided and one room will be used for storage. The big main is progressing rapidly on the way from Monrovia and is expected to reach Sierra Madre within three weeks. The work of piping this city will then proceed as rapidly as it can be pushed.

MORE BAD LUCK

J. H. Badger has about decided to stay away from Sierra Madre or else locate here and stay away from Monrovia. His bad luck in going from one place to the other is alarming. Not long ago when starting for Monrovia from Sierra Madre he ran W. A. White's auto into the gutter. Last Tuesday he drove over from Monrovia behind a gentle bay horse which he tied in front of the city hall while he transacted some business. When he got ready to start home he untied the steed but before he could get into the buggy the animal started to run. Badger made a brave attempt to climb into the buggy at the risk of his neck but found it impossible and finally had to drop out of the race while the horse sped toward Monrovia minus a driver.

AT THE THEATERS

Burbank

"Salvation Nell" has crowded the Burbank at every performance since its opening and will be repeated for another week. There will also be special matinees on Monday, Labor Day, and Friday Admission Day. There never has been any play produced by a stock company that has received such high praise as "Salvation Nell," not even excepting recent remarkable performances at the Burbank such as "Paid in Full," "Merely Mary Ann," "The Lion and the Mouse" and others. Marjorie Rambeau's acting in the title role is inspired, and several critics have declared that she strikes an emotional pitch which not even Mrs. Fiske, the famous creator of the character, ever touched. Byron Beasley, just back from his vacation, makes of the repellent Jim Platt an intensely human, suffering, sinner, and takes hold deep down in the consciousness of everyone in the audience.

Majestic

"The Lottery Man" has been one of the chief topics of conversation in New York for the past winter. As comedies go, "The Lottery Man," the latest play by Rida Johnson Young, is regarded as one of the purest examples of humor the American stage has seen since the days that one's grandparents used to laugh over pieces which were free from taint. The Messrs. Shubert "led off" this past season by producing this comedy and they were repaid for their venture a thousandfold.

The original company and production is now being sent on tour by the Shuberts, and the first appearance in this city will occur at the Majestic Theater next Monday, Labor Day, matinee, when a week's run will be inaugurated. A special popular price matinee will be given Wednesday afternoon, and regular matinee on Saturday.

Belasco

Commencing Monday night, the Belasco company will give William Collier's Collier's laughing success, "The Man from Mexico." The piece is no stranger to local audiences but each recurring presentation finds the absurdly ridiculous situations creating just as much if not greater, fun than before, while the glib-tongued Benjamin Fitzhugh describes to his confiding and trusting wife, his supposed visit for thirty days to Mexico—in reality spent in jail—to an ever increasing accompaniment of laughter on the part of the audiences. Farces have a habit of coming and going but there are few that retain their popularity and fun-creating possibilities as does "The Man from Mexico."

Frank Camp will have a chance to prove his worth as a comedian in the part of Fitzhugh and while this splendid actor's local talents have been devoted chiefly to the depicting of stage villains, in the cast he is known to be an able comedian. Mr. Vivian, Mr. Ruggles, Mr. Yerrance, Mr. Applebee, Mr. Field, Mr. Andrews, Miss Farrington, Miss Sullivan, Miss Lewis and the others of the Belasco Company will be found in the cast of "The Man from Mexico," while the performance will serve to introduce Herbert Rawlinson, a newcomer to the Belasco organization.

REWARD

I will pay $25 reward for the arrest and conviction of the parties who broke into the boys' club house on my premises, Central avenue east of Mountain Trail, and carried off numerous articles belonging to members of the boys' club and damaged the building. The articles carried off were boys' catching mitts, medicine ball, handball, gloves, etc. Send information to MRS. J. H. WRIGHT, LaBelle Ave., Sierra Madre.

WE take pleasure in announcing the opening of our new store and extend this invitation to the public to visit and inspect our entire establishment. As to our business policy, we prefer to make it known by actual performance, but a few words may be in order just now
